STATESMAN'S SHAME.

DEFENSE OPENED.

Mrs. Bradley Shows Repentance.

Woman Slayer Prefers Death by Hanging to Term in Penitentiary.

Ex-Senator's Disgrace Will Be Bared to the World in Court.

Blame for the Downfall of the Prisoner Is Laid at Brown's Door.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, whose defense in her trial for the murder of ex-Senator Arthur Brown opened today, says she prefers death to a prison sentence.

"Of course," she said, "I would prefer a verdict of murder in the first degree to a penitentiary sentence, however short, for I don't think I could bear that."

"But you surely wish to live?" "For myself? No," she answered. "I feel that my life is ended. But for my children and my friends, yes."

"You don't know," she continued, "how kind my friends have been. The one bright spot in my life is thinking of their goodness to me. They have been so true. Think of my mother and father and my sister standing by me as they do when I have wandered so far from the standards they hold dear."

It was the first hint of anything but repentance that had fallen from Mrs. Bradley's lips.

"Then you regret your wandering from those standards now?" "Yes," she replied, slowly. "I do. I know now it is always wrong to purchase individual happiness at the expense of others. That is what I did."

"Because I did it I had the idea that I could expect no sympathy from my friends. I have been amazed as well as greatly strengthened by the number of consoling letters I have received here in the jail from women who are utter strangers to me. Their sympathy has helped me greatly, and if I am given the chance I will try to prove myself worthy of it. I will live for my children. I have made no plans. I have no idea what the verdict will be. It is in the jury's hands. Whatever it is I will try to bear it, but I do hope it won't be a penitentiary sentence."

IN ANOTHER DEFENSE. That Mrs. Bradley's defense will be instantly made evident beyond question by the preliminary statement to the court today by her attorney, Mr. Hoover.

The prosecution consumed the entire forenoon concluding the examination of its witness-in-chief, to prove the facts of the killing, and when it rested the case Mr. Hoover followed with his preliminary outline of the case for the defense.

He detailed the principal events of Mrs. Bradley's life and entered minutely into her intimacy with Brown, saying it would be proved that she was completely under his domination, and forecasting testimony which would be added to show that she was mentally irresponsible when she fired the fatal shot.

The testimony presented today by the prosecution was all intended to show premeditation on the part of Mrs. Bradley in killing Senator Brown.

It is understood that when the trial resumes tomorrow the state will stubbornly antagonize Mrs. Bradley's plea of insanity, and much rebutting testimony will be introduced.

When the court adjourned yesterday District Attorney Baker and his assistants were engaged in an effort to obtain from the members of the police department the details of the confession said to have been made by Mrs. Bradley immediately after her arrest on the charge of shooting Senator Brown. Up to that time Mr. Hoover had successfully opposed this purpose, because, as he claimed, it was made under the false assumption on Mrs. Bradley's part that what she said would not be used against her.

The District Attorney was not specially persistent in pressing the point, and early today was quite inclined to drop it altogether.

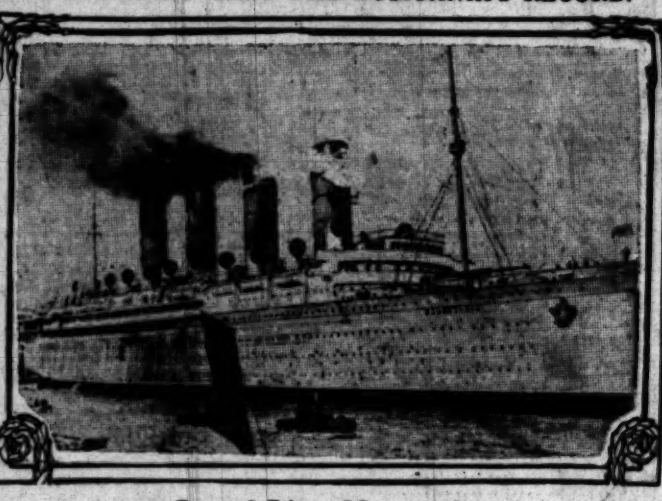

THREATS AGAINST BROWN. The only remaining feature of his direct presentation of the case is that relating to threats, which, it is claimed, Mrs. Bradley had made against Mr. Brown while she was still in San Jose City, and Mr. Baker notified Mrs. Bradley's attorneys early today that very little time would be consumed in this feature of the case.

It was stated also that Mrs. Bradley's defense would be begun with the presentation of testimony to sustain her plea that she was insane and irresponsible when the shooting occurred, but that this would be preceded by a statement from Mr. Hoover, outlining in detail the evidence upon which this plea would be made.

There are a number of witnesses present in the courtroom ready to testify to occurrences relating to the alleged intimacy between Senator Brown and Mrs. Bradley, which, it is stated by the defense, will go to substantiate the claim that Mrs. Bradley was insane when the shooting occurred.

WILL TRY TO BEAT THE LUSITANIA'S RECORD.

Cunard Liner Mauretania, which sails today from Liverpool on her first trans-Atlantic voyage. She is expected to wrest the title of "Queen of the Seas" from her sister ship, the Lusitania.

A NEW QUEEN.

WILL RACE ACROSS ATLANTIC FOR RECORD.

Mauretania, Sister Ship of Lusitania, Said to Be a Much Faster Boat, Will Start Today on Her First Voyage Over the Ocean.

LIVERPOOL (Eng.) Nov. 15.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Mauretania, twin steamship of the Lusitania, which, a few weeks ago, won the trans-Atlantic record, will sail from this port tomorrow on her first voyage to New York. When the ship is over it is believed here the laurels which the Lusitania has won so short a time will be transferred to a new world beater.

Though built by the same company and along nearly the same lines, experts declare that the Mauretania is by far a faster boat than her companion ship, and in speed is superior to any other vessel of her size.

As on the first trip of the Lusitania, it is understood to be the policy of the later ship not to put the Mauretania to the supreme test. The machinery is too new for the utmost strain to be put upon it. But the trial trip of the Mauretania developed so far in excess of the builders' anticipations that they believe extra effort will not need to be made to clip the present record.

On the trial voyage of 1200 miles, the Mauretania was tested five days. On these days she maintained a speed of twenty-six and one-half knots an hour, and during one hour, when she was put to high speed, developed 37.2 knots.

The Mauretania is larger than the Lusitania, having a draught of 17 feet, six inches more than the sister ship. She is 790 feet long. The internal arrangement of the two ships is very similar, although in architectural adornment they vary. There are two dining saloons on the lower ship, situated between the upper and lower decks. The larger will seat 250 passengers, and the smaller 150. The lower deck is found in Atlantic liners have been discarded, and smaller tables put in their places.

Altogether, there is accommodation for 250 passengers, 300 first-class and 400 second-class, the remainder being stowage.

To drive the Mauretania from Liverpool to New York, it is estimated, will take as much coal as can be loaded into twenty trains of twenty cars each.

LOS ANGELES MAN CAPTURED TERRITORIAL DELEGATION.

Harry White, Ex-Mayor of Seattle, Goes to Juneau as Personal Representative of Secretary of War and Succeeds in Moulding Sentiment of Republicans.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

JUNEAU (Alaska) Nov. 15.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Resolutions passed today by the Alaska Republican convention endorsing Taft and instructing delegates to vote for him were due to the efforts of Harry White, Ex-Mayor of Seattle, now of Los Angeles. Mr. White has extensive interests in coal mines, telephone lines and oil companies in Alaska. He came here as the personal representative of Taft and succeeded in moulding sentiment for him.

The delegates elected are: John G. Heid, Juneau; J. T. Perkins, Nome; E. F. Johnson, Nome; James Wicksam, Fairbanks; Richard S. Ryan, Fairbanks; F. L. Ballaine, Seward. The territorial government was informed.

HOGGATT'S MEN BOLT CONVENTION.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

JUNEAU (Alaska) Nov. 15.—The endorsement of W. H. Taft for the Presidency, and a ringing demand for home rule are the salient features of the platform adopted at the morning session of the Alaska Republican convention today.

Following the withdrawal of Gov. W. B. Hoggatt's supporters yesterday, the convention met promptly today and began its business without loss of any time.

The platform directs the delegates who will be chosen to the National Republican nominating convention next year to support Taft for the Presidency, the administration of President Roosevelt is endorsed. It insists that Alaska should be entitled to the benefits of the ordinance of 1787 and the compact between the original thirteen States of the Union as effecting the rights of other Territories to home rule.

The anti-Hoggatt forces were in complete control, and because they did not care to participate under such conditions, Gov. Hoggatt's friends bolted yesterday. It is believed that they will send a contesting delegation to the national meeting next year.

BUYING IS HEAVY.

Small Investors Are Reaping Harvest.

Purchases of Securities for Holding Are Greatest Ever Known.

Millions of Dollars Put Into Stocks by People of Moderate Means.

Development Insures Certain Relief from Monetary Situation.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Never in the history of Wall street has there been such enormous purchases of securities by investors in odd lots, and the transfer of bonds of railroad and industrial corporations show today a record-breaking number of new shareholders.

The present low market price of standard securities is responsible for the buying. The New York Central Railroad and several other companies say the number of their stockholders has nearly doubled in the last year. The transfer departments of all corporations are working day and night to keep up with their work. Where a transfer of stock is usually effected in two days, delays of a week are now not uncommon.

TOTAL MILLIONS. The distribution of stock to people of moderate means foretells certain relief for the monetary situation, for brokerage houses state today that these purchases are made outright with cash withdrawn from safety deposit vaults or with certified checks. These sums, ranging in amounts from $10 to $100,000, are the largest ever made by small investors. Bankers welcome the small investor, for his appearance betokens a general confidence in the country's industrial well-being and a return to normal conditions.

Secretary Trimble of the United States Steel Corporation said today: "None two years ago it was decided to publish the number of our stockholders, but I can say the number of investors in small lots during the last month has been unprecedented, and our transfer force is struggling to keep up with the work imposed upon it. As in 1905 there have been, I believe, heavy purchases of our securities by banking syndicates, both here and abroad, which hold them for investment purposes, but they do not appear on the steel corporation's books."

SMALL INVESTORS BUY. James L. Carter, who is in charge of the transfer office of J. P. Morgan & Co., said today that the purchases of small amounts of stocks was breaking all records. He added:

"With prices at bedrock the small investor has availed himself of a rare opportunity to invest his savings

TARIFF WILL BE TAKEN UP.Beveridge Will Ask Advice
as to Revision.Republicans to Make Changes
"Where Needed."Commission to Study Schedules Carefully.(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) By an agreement made in a sense under cover, the Republican leaders decided last summer that tariff questions must cease from troubling until the next President has been elected.Despite the pronouncement of the "stand pat" element of the party, the tariff in one form is expected to occupy the attention of Congress within a few days after the opening of the session. Word has come to the capital that it is the intention of Senator Beveridge of Indiana to introduce a bill for the appointment of a commission whose duty it shall be to study the schedules with care and to be prepared to advise Congress on the matter of revision.Many Republicans believe that if politics could be laid aside the tariff might be adjusted so that the vast majority of Americans, consumers and manufacturers, might be benefited. It seems likely that at the next national convention the Republican party will declare for revision where it is found to be needed.There seems to be a tendency on the part even of the old tariff stand-bys to admit that the customs plank in the best platform read "where revision is needed" instead of "when revision is needed," which was the spirit of the statement in former platforms.This means simply that the party intends finally to do something with the tariff and the time set is at the first session of the Sixty-first Congress.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(Exclu-

Secretary Metcalf of the Navy had found it necessary to turn a naval point of view in forbidding the wedding of his son, Eugene Metcalf of the Navy, with Miss Butters. When asked about it today, Secretary Metcalf entered a broad denial, beginning with the statement:"In the first place, he is not an ensign."After a pause the Secretary smiled and said:
"Perhaps if a young man were still in the academy and married without consulting the authorities he would be asked to leave the school. Victor takes his examination for promotion to ensign.""Will the wedding take place, Mr.

in order that the gold might be

SUN WORSHIPERS' TRAIL STREWN WITH SORROWS.

Otoman Zar-Adust-Hanish, sun worshiper, who calls himself a "reverend doctor," and who is returning to Denver after a protracted stay in the East, where his operations were marked by a trail of misery and suffering.FANATIC LEAVES
MANIAC TRAIL.HANISH, OF EVIL FAME, HEADS FOR COLORADO.Denver Police and Public Await Sun Worshiper, Whose Followers Have Begun Mad Through Fasting and Self-Torture, and Who Has Been Driven From Cities.(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
DENVER, Nov. 15.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The police and public are awaiting the arrival of "Dr." Otoman Zar-Adust-Hanish, high priest of the Mazdassan cult of sun worshipers, exponent of fasting for the cure of disease and self-torture for driving out the devil of unbelief, who is scheduled to come here within a few days, and if he transgresses the law in any particular he will find himself in serious trouble.The last time he was here the "Perfect One," as he styles himself, was implicated in the death of Maria H.
Berry, a pretty young woman who became a follower of the Persian and who died a raving maniac in the county hospital. Hanish denied having caused the girl's death, but he left the city hurriedly when the dead girl's brother threatened his life. The exposé of his teachings in Denver was never complete, for Miss Berry was hopelessly crazed during the time she was in the hospital, and unable to tell what had been done to her. Her chest and body, when she came under the care of the physician, was lacerated and raw, but the secret of it died with her.Hanish's operations in Denver, however, were not a marker to his work in Chicago, characterized as "hellish" by the police who were called to investigate the Mazdassan Temple Society, he had as inmates of the temple scores of persons, mostly women, who gave up all that he might lead them to greater enjoyment of life through the practice of his teachings. While openly he advocated a system of health culture involving only proper hygiene, proper breathing and fasting for the relief of physical ills, those who perpetrated the mysteries within the walls of Mazdassan palace told the police of the indescribable self-torture inflicted by the inmates to drive out demons whose habitation of their bodies they thought prevented full enjoyment of the fruits of the teachings of the cult.Scourging as indulged by ascetics in the monasteries centuries ago, laceration of the body by rolling over it rubber cylinders in which were imbedded blunted needle points, slashing with sharp instruments, and treatment of the wounds with irritating drugs that they might not heal, until insensibility to physical suffering was induced, were some of the methods exposed. Many of the torture instruments came into the hands of the police while the operations of the alleged healer were under investigation by the authorities.Hanish's work was exposed there early in 1904, when a beautiful and wealthy woman, Emma Emma Remon, residing at No. 4107 Grand avenue, was taken from her apartments to the County Detention Hospital a raving maniac, after fasting forty days.The young woman was one of the most ardent of the followers of the sun worshipers' cult, and despite the appeals and exhortations of her relatives, gave to the Mazdassan Society all her worldly goods, and became an inmate of the "palace."

For many months she followed the doctrines, then fell ill, with an all-ment that the ordinary practice of self-torture would not overcome.

Under the advice of Hanish she undertook to endure the Biblical forty-day fast, that her life might be cured.
She was locked in a room where no one save devotees of the teachings were permitted to see her. She refused the food, but when the forty days were past she was a raving maniac and almost dead from the results of the awful strain on her physical resources. Her mad ravings that aroused the neighborhood martians to the palace led to the case being reported to the police, and she was taken to a more friendly clinic.
The affair, despite the efforts of the followers of the cult, would not hush.
Friends and relatives of the girl called on the police to give what information they possessed, with the result that the entire force of five hundred men, armed with clubs and batons, and that the innermost secrets of the palace were bare to the public. Operations were for a time suspended, and Hanish found it convenient to sojourn for a time in more friendly climes.
When the excitement wore off, however, he returned and lived in the "palace," despite the opposition of residents near by.Hanish, as high priest of Mazdassan, the "thought that masters the destinies of man," is a peculiarly picturesque individual—pale, quiet, accented in appearance. To carry out his claim of descent from a long line of perfect ones in Persia, he affects in his public appearance attire at once glorious and impressive. Long, flowing robes, blended colors, jewels, real or otherwise, and a remarkable style of hairdressing that gives him an unusually benign and guileless appearance, are his.Municipal Ownerships Who Had

in the Cold.(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Municipal ownership received another rude jolt yesterday when the city authorities decided to cut down the force in the city repair department 60 per cent.This will throw 200 ardent municipal ownership advocates, who have been looking wise and drawing fat salaries, upon the cold world. It is said that two hundred men who will be retained do much more and better work than the entire force of five hundred.Another feature of the elimination of the municipal ownership remnant is the mysterious disappearance of much costly material which cannot be traced to any completed work. Under the Dun administration, brass foundries, iron foundries and even a furniture factory were established. They afforded an admirable refuge for municipal ownership advocates, but did little else.It is strongly hinted that unless lumber and other supplies are accounted for speedily prosecutions will follow.OLD SOL HAS

THE MIDDLE WEST.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Today was one of the coldest days Chicago has ever experienced for this time of the year, the temperature not leaving the freezing point more than 4 deg. during the twelve hours, and for nine hours the bulb was within 1 deg. of freezing.
Medicine Hat today was 10 deg. warmer than Chicago's maximum, which was 18 deg. The minimum was 10 deg.

MRS. SLADEK ACQUITTED.
CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Mrs. Mary Sladek, mother of the "prison baby," may walk out of the County Jail tomorrow a free woman. She was acquitted by a jury in the criminal court tonight of the murder of her mother, Mary Mettles, by poison. Another indictment, charging her with the murder of her father,
Frank Mettles, still stands against her.
This, it is believed, will be quashed tomorrow by State Attorney Healy.
The jury took four hours to reach a verdict, agreeing at 9 o'clock. Only two ballots were taken. The first stood 11 to 1 in favor of acquittal.FAMINE IN CHEESE.
CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) A famine of limburger cheese is on. The price has soared to 16 cents a pound, the highest on record. Ordinarily the annual supply of limburger furnished the United States through the Chicago market has averaged 1,100, 000 pounds. This year the output will be about 1,000,000 pounds. It is a habit of consuming approximately a quarter of a million pounds.TOLLED HIS OWN KNEEL.
CHIPPWA FALLS (Wis.) Nov. 15.— Carl Kojewski tolled the knell of his own life today. He was 46 years old, and had been sexton of the Presbyterian Church for many years. The bell was tolled solemnly for a funeral and stopped suddenly. A member of the congregation rushed into the church to find the aged sexton dead, his fingers still tightly clasped about the bell rope.BLAINE'S SECRETARY MISSING.
WARSAW (Ind.) Nov. 15.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Farmers living in the vicinity of Bruce Lake, near Warsaw, have informed the authorities of the mysterious disappearance of Harry N.
Roach, former private secretary to James G. Blaine, who, for ten years, lived in a cabin constructed by himself
on an island in Bruce Lake.
There is no clue to his whereabouts.

STIPULATIONS FILED.

RESTATE CASES ARE UP.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS--A.M.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15--Attorneys Herrin and Dunne for the Southern Pacific Company and United States District Attorney Devlin filed stipulations in the United States District Court with regard to the twelve indictments for rebating found against the company.

The court will probably act in the case by November 19.

DEFENSE OPENED.

The District Attorney and his assistant decided to make a further effort to bring out the facts concerning Mrs. Bradley's statement at the police station, in which they were successful. Mrs. Bradley's story and the jury in the courtroom, she obtained a few moments of private communication with her counsel, Judge Powers, to whom she seems to turn instinctively in every emergency. She was again dressed in black, which was relieved by a tracing of white around the neck.

The first witness of the day was Mrs. Marilla Thornberg, matron of police station No. 1, where Mrs. Bradley was taken immediately after the tragedy.

Albert H. Kelly of Salt Lake was introduced for the purpose of showing premeditation on Mrs. Bradley's part. He said he had known Mrs. Bradley for twenty years, and that when he had met her on the street in Salt Lake, in June or July of 1904, she had told him that she was making her own living by keeping a rooming house.

"I WANTED BROWN HIMSELF,"

"I asked her if Brown was not putting up for her expenses, and she replied that he was only paying her what he felt like paying. She said she did not want his money, but wanted Brown himself, and if he did not acknowledge the parentage of her second boy she would kill him."

James H. Brown of Salt Lake City, who was employed as a watchman at Mrs. Brown's residence, told of an unsuccessful effort made by Mrs. Bradley on November 27, 1906, to gain admission to Brown's house, when, he said, she carried a pistol in her muff. He also said three nights afterward he had found the woman in Brown's back yard, when she told him that she had got the gun for Mr. Brown, but that if any one interfered he would "get the same that Mr. Brown would get," adding: "I am a vicious woman."

Judge Powers questioned the witness minutely in response to

CO-EDS FILLED WITH WRATH.

Chicago Girls With Pretty Arms Don't Want to Prove They're Dumb.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15--(Exclusive Dispatch.) There was wrath at the University of Chicago today over the decision of the health department that every person in residence at the school must be vaccinated or show proof of vaccination before the end of this week, or be dismissed.

The anger was confined to the young women, some of whom declared they would rather have amputated their right arm to the order, which was issued as a final effort to check the spread of that malarious in the big institution.

Many of the young women had not wished to hear the beauty of their arms and had been vaccinated at another part of the body. It is probable a woman physician will be sent to the school to deal with the co-eds.

CANS THEIR CRY.

TRAFFIC ASSOCIATION FORMED.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS--A.M.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15--An organization for the purpose of bettering conditions relative to obtaining the cars for freight and other matters has been formed under the name of the California Traffic Association.

Officers have been secured and all those likely to be aided by the organization are being communicated with.

FIRST SHIP THROUGH CANAL.

Mississippi and Illinois Rivers Now Connected by Waterway Open for Traffic.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS--P.M.]
ROCK ISLAND (Ill.) Nov. 15--The United States steamer Marine, reached Rock Island, this evening from Henssle, Ill., completing "the first trip through the recently-opened Illinois and Michigan Canal. The steamer was met by a delegation of citizens and greeted by a chorus of whistles.

A general jubilation followed. The canal, which is the first ever built by the United States government, is 66 miles long and connects the Mississippi and Illinois rivers. It cost $7,000,000.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED.

HARRIMAN LINES AOT.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS--A.M.]
NEW YORK, Nov. 15--Directors of the United States Railway Company declared a quarterly dividend of 2 1/2 per cent. on the common stock, which is separate from the rate of dividend of 10 per cent. annually established about a year ago.

The directors of the Southern Pacific Company declared a semi-annual dividend of 2 1/2 per cent. on the preferred stock and a quarterly dividend of 1 1/4 per cent. on the common stock. These dividends are unchanged from the last previous quarter.

RECEIPTS HELD IN OMAHA.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS--A.M.]
NEW YORK, Nov. 15--E. H. Harriman declared today that there was no truth in the story sent out from Omaha that all of the receipts of the Union Pacific system had been shipped to New York since the beginning of the financial stringency.

"Far from that being the case," said Mr. Harriman, "we specifically desired the receipts to be held in Omaha to help the local situation there. We have had no receipts from Omaha since October 22."

Chicago Girls With Pretty Arms Don't Want to Prove They're Dumb.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15--(Exclusive Dispatch.) There was wrath at the University of Chicago today over the decision of the health department that every person in residence at the school must be vaccinated or show proof of vaccination before the end of this week, or be dismissed.

The anger was confined to the young women, some of whom declared they would rather have amputated their right arm to the order, which was issued as a final effort to check the spread of that malarious in the big institution.

Many of the young women had not wished to hear the beauty of their arms and had been vaccinated at another part of the body. It is probable a woman physician will be sent to the school to deal with the co-eds.

LITTLE BLIND GOD. MARCHIONESS WEDS OFFICER.

Pope Approves Marriage of Policeman and Milady.

Italian Blue-bloods Horrified by Pretty Romance.

Stormy Scene With Bride's Haughty Relatives.

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

ROME, Oct. 25.—Italian society has not yet recovered from the shock administered to it by the marriage of the Marchioness Serpelli to a carabinieri, the Italian equivalent of a policeman, and aristocratic pride has been severely chastened by the knowledge that the Pope not only refused to use his influence to prevent the wedding, but declared that he approved of it. Long and bitter discussions have followed, and the Marchioness, who is the daughter of a blue-blooded Italian family, has been forced to marry the policeman, who is the son of a poor Italian peasant.

The Marchioness, who is the daughter of a blue-blooded Italian family, has been forced to marry the policeman, who is the son of a poor Italian peasant. The marriage has caused a great deal of discussion in Italian society, and the Marchioness has been forced to marry the policeman, who is the son of a poor Italian peasant.

Meanwhile, events were marching towards what her relations call a catastrophe—what she calls paradise. After a month of complete retirement, the silence got on the nerves of the Marchioness, who one day was very impatient, besides being inefficient. "You may go at once," said his mistress, "either you pay me (naming an enormous sum) or I shall stay while it pleases me."

Thoroughly alarmed, for the man looked capable of violence, the Marchioness sent for her car, and, arriving, made short work of the rebellious cook, and in half an hour he was off the premises. The brigadier of the carabinieri, Santa Scalfaro, an immensely good-looking fellow about thirty, when all was over, asked permission to see the Signora Marchioness for a few moments. This was easily granted, and thus the two saw each other for the first time. The Marchioness, when all was over, asked permission to see the Signora Marchioness for a few moments.

"I thank you, brigadier," she began, then sighing and smoothing her black dress with her slender hands covered with rings. The brigadier looked at her on the tip of his tongue to offer her and then to take care of her, but feeling the difference in the ranks, and conscious of the fact that she was only known each other the better part of five minutes, he restrained the impulse, and remained the silent, head-downed servant. But his eyes spoke for him.

She then hesitatingly hoped that he would come and see her occasionally, and blushed deeply in saying it. That was all during this first interview, but not many days passed before the brilliant carabinieri was again at the villa, and the Marchioness, discovering that he had a very good temper, and another his visits continued and increased, until one day, walking in the park of the villa, she stumbled and suddenly found herself in his arms. Words were unnecessary; he was gently caressing the man she needed to look after her.

This was all very well and delicious while it lasted, but a carabinieri could not be a perfect gentleman, and without the villagers remarking on the fact, and like all gossip, not too good-naturedly. However, the Marchioness, wrapped in love's young dream, heard nothing until one day she was told that both her father and father-in-law desired to see her. She went to the villa, in which her lover was due, and she felt instinctively that the moment to fight had come.

MARCHIONESS INDIGNANT.
She entered the room nervously, but blushed when her father said—pointing to Marchioness Serpelli—"Do you see that man? He says you are the mistress of a carabinieri! Deny it, deny it at once!" Father and mother, heard nothing until one day she was told that both her father and father-in-law desired to see her.

"My son replaced by a policeman!" hissed the Marchioness. "Why should you be so angry to see his mother?" (which was the unkindest out of all as she is really ten years the eldest). "You are an abandoned female and I shall remove my grandson from your care!" and he was gone like a whirlwind.

In the thick of the storm with her father, Scalfaro walked into the room, and together they faced the cyclone, which lasted for hours, and ended in Marchioness Serpelli casting her daughter off, she says, forever.

The two indignant Marchionesses took their grievances to the Pope, imploring him to interfere, saying that even so rebellious a person as Maria would listen to the Holy Father, but what was their discomfiture and astonishment when the gentle Pontiff, pale and trembling, brought to bear on the brigadier's superiors, who willingly lent themselves to the defense for separating the lovers by sending him to a distant part of the kingdom. But it was all in vain. He followed them by resigning. He is now no more a carabinieri, he is the husband of the Marchioness.

"QUANTO CUBANAVACA" will be the title of an interesting article in The Times Magazine the coming Sunday.

BELIEVE THEM BURGLARS.

Much Stolen Goods Recovered in Fifth Street Rooming House and Two Men Arrested.

Through the recovery of three suitcases of stolen property yesterday in a rooming house at Fifth and San Pedro streets, the police apprehended a gang of burglars who have been operating some time in S. P. Kershner and Frank O'Keefe were arrested on suspicion. The police also secured some advance information on members of a gang who are on their way here from El Paso.

The room was broken into by the police last night, after learning that the stolen property was being stored there. The stuff was taken to the detective department, and a patrolman was stationed at the room to arrest the men when they returned. The suitcases were filled with clothing which had been stolen in recent burglaries.

When Kershner and O'Keefe returned they declared they had no connection with the gang. They said that the suitcases were left there by a man who had been working for them at the house, but had gone away. He asked them to take care of the suitcases until he returned, and he was made to connect them with several burglaries.

Municipalities Convention Ends Sessions.

Peasadena Gathering Said to Have Been Businesslike and Thoroughgoing—Auditors Consider Scheme of Uniformity of Their Reports—Matter Likely to Go Before Legislature.

Pleasure more than business marked the last day of the tenth annual convention of the League of California Municipalities. The convention, which was held at the Hotel Pasadena, ended its sessions with a banquet at the hotel.

There was only a short formal session of the league in order to pass resolutions of the league, which were then referred to the various committees. The convention, which was held at the Hotel Pasadena, ended its sessions with a banquet at the hotel.

At the final session of the auditors, assessors and clerks' section, Don D. Kellogg of this city elected president of that section. M. L. Hanson of Berkeley vice-president, and Fred W. Carey of Sacramento, and M. L. Hanson of Berkeley, E. M. Parker, Monterey, and Charles Stibbitt of Los Angeles, were elected to the committee on the necessity of uniformity in the auditor's reports, and for the committee on the necessity of uniformity in the auditor's reports.

The committee on the necessity of uniformity in the auditor's reports, and for the committee on the necessity of uniformity in the auditor's reports, was appointed to draft a proper form. This committee consists of Don D. Kellogg, Pasadena; Fred W. Carey, Sacramento; M. L. Hanson, Berkeley; E. M. Parker, Monterey, and Charles Stibbitt of Los Angeles.

JAPS FLOCKING TO U. S.

Increase of 250 Per Cent. in Number of Immigrants from Mikado's Land.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—While immigration to America from all countries showed during the month of October a considerable increase, being 22 per cent. greater than in October, 1933, and 12 per cent. greater than in October, 1932, the increase in immigration from Japan was greater than has been shown in any one month in the history of the immigration service.

The restrictive regulations operating against the Japanese and Korean immigrants were thought of the number of Japanese who arrived in this country was 64. During October of this year the number of Japanese arriving in America, not counting scores who were smuggled across the Canadian and Mexican borders, was 114, an increase of about 250 per cent.

While the increase in Japanese immigration seems to be a temporary phenomenon, in the minds of officials of the government, because the percentage of Japanese immigrants is so small, it has been sufficient to create comment. No statement concerning the matter, however, can be made from any official of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

LAWYERS VICTORIOUS.

U.S.C. College Boys Defeat Harvard School Team in Basketball by Overwhelming Score.

The U.S.C. College of Law defeated Harvard School in basketball yesterday afternoon by the score of 29 to 7. Harvard showed lack of team work, but Whitman, Stoll and Levy were able to manipulate the ball while their teammates seemed to lose interest.

As usual, the law school aggregation began to play with the famous cross-court formation and a goal was made in a few seconds. Time and again Folson, the center for law school, would outplay his opponent by passing the ball to Goodie, who returned it across court in time for Newmire to make the basket.

Both teams fouled at different stages of the game, however, but the referee could not see these fouls every time, as the ball changed hands too quickly for close observation. During the first half Folson, Goodie and Newmire, with fine interference by Selph and Richardson, were playing a fast game, and the Harvard team was released from a number of fouls.

Stoll of the Harvard five injured his ankle in the second half and Fowler took his place. Stoll is the star of the Harvard team and is a very good player, especially in leadership. Although outplayed by the law school five, the Harvard team was determined to win the close formation of their heavy opponents, but they were unable to withstand the rushes of the law school players. Folson gave the Harvard team a famous cross-over play and the Harvard team succeeded in annexing six baskets with this formation.

After Harvard had found out the secret of the cross-over play, the law school used Folson on account of his height and his three-point shot in spite of close interference by the Harvard guards.

Mr. Tawney has to work during a session of the Congress unless you are right here to watch him from day to day.

Interminable hearings are held. Every man who has a plan for getting at government funds, whether he be directly connected with the government or not, eventually has his scheme passed upon by Mr. Tawney and his subcommittee into which he divides his big committee.

These things are more or less negative, though most important of the duties which fall to Mr. Tawney.

In an affirmative way he has made a radical departure from the system which has been maintained in the past, and which has already saved millions to the government in securing the passage of a law making it a misdemeanor for the heads of government departments to exceed their appropriations and create deficits. How important this has been is shown by the fact that hitherto it has been necessary at the beginning of each Congress to pass deficiency bills carrying sums approximating $25,000,000. At the last session of the Congress the deficiency was less than $1,000,000.

This new law of Mr. Tawney's is no longer a mere negative.

It applies directly to the official members of the President's Cabinet. It provides that if they do not keep their appropriations within the limits of the law, they are subject to heavy fines and imprisonment and disqualification from office. There was a time when the law was not enforced, but no one has had the hardihood to defy it. Mr. Tawney contends that it simply restores to the Congress the right to exercise its power of the purse for every expenditure, a responsibility it is ready to accept.

Under the old lax system of Cabinet officers suiting their own sweet will as to what should be spent and what should be saved, the government was in a constant state of financial confusion.

Mr. Tawney says that he is doing his best to put the government on a sound financial basis, and that he is doing his best to put the government on a sound financial basis, and that he is doing his best to put the government on a sound financial basis.

One of the great reforms which Mr. Tawney has instituted in handling the government funds, for example, is the employment of arbitrary periods.

He stopped this, and every officer of the government, with the possible exception of a few special employees under the Department of Justice and the secret service, are appropriated for specifically.

Two of the pertinent questions before the mining world at the present time have been taken up by the Los Angeles Chamber of Mines, and will be run to a finish.

They are the waiving of the assessment work required by law to be done upon every claim, and the reservation of a portion of the receipts from the sale of treasury stock for development purposes.

Regarding the first question, the chamber passed resolutions at a special directors' meeting last Saturday urging the United States Congress to waive for 1907 and 1908 the provisions of the national law which require an assessment work, owing to the financial stringency, which makes it impossible for many claim holders to work their property through lack of ready funds.

The Los Angeles Stock Exchange also adopted the same course, both organizations starting the movement unknown to each other. The resolution of the Stock Exchange differs from those of the Chamber of Mines in so far as the former requests the waiving for 1907 only, while the latter wishes the following year to be also included. The Stock Exchange has sent circulars to similar organizations of all other large cities, and thus reaches a different circle from that reached by the Chamber of Mines.

In the resolutions drafted by the Chamber of Mines, it gives as the reason for this action, besides the effect of the financial situation on claim holders, the possibility of lawlessness and riot in the mining districts.

This refers to the general tendency in those districts to stand up and argue with "claim-jumpers" with a shotgun, and the conditions there, if the assessment work was required, would make an ideal situation for "jumpers" to take advantage of. The law requires that at least $100 worth of development be done on each claim, and many find it impossible to raise the necessary funds for this "assessment work."

The second step that is to be taken up by the Chamber of Mines is a continuation of its fight upon "wildcat" mines and "wild-cat" claims.

The investigating committee of the chamber will hereafter insist that at least 50 per cent of the receipts from treasury stock be set aside for purposes of development. The conclusion also has been reached by this committee that it is necessary, in order to protect those who have invested in the treasury stock, that all of the promoters' stock shall be pooled until such time as the property is found to be on a paying basis.

John Janney, president of the Pioche Mining Company, in a letter to the chamber, says: "I note with a great deal of interest and considerable pleasure that the Los Angeles Chamber of Mines is taking steps to place the mining business on a basis where it can be included in the list of legitimate industries."

He says that the men who are engaged in legitimate mining realize that it is their duty to protect the unwary purchaser of stock, who, through lack of common intelligence, is unable to protect himself, but who, however, an efficient knocker after he has once been skinned.

Sell Your Old Furniture

Why have the house, cellar and garret littered with old furniture? Old furniture, no matter how dilapidated it may appear to you or how much out of style, can be sold.

There are persons in Los Angeles who make a business of buying old furniture—fixing it up and selling it to people who are glad to buy furniture cheaply.

The way to get in touch with the people who would buy your old furniture is to read in the classified advertising columns of THE TIMES, daily and Sunday. If you do not find the name of the man who will give you all you think your furniture is worth, place a small advertisement of your own under the proper classification. It will cost you only a few cents.

THE TIMES, daily and Sunday, is the newspaper in Los Angeles which prints the classified advertisements.

Deeds

Mr. Cattergrew's influence has been distinctly nothing.

We predict that Mr. Bryan's third trial will result in another conviction.

The law scrip is pretty enough to make any man want a carload of it.

While times are not hard, still they are not exactly what you might call soft.

Certainly no sailor could be blamed for wanting to have a sweetheart in a port like this.

There never was a minute when the Los Angeles banks thought of closing even their side doors.

The astronomers inform us that they can now see Mercury crossing the sun. Has he still the snakes?

The country stood for placing a new girl on the coins but it will not stand for taking the old motto off.

It appears that the cheers the Carr received in the Duma came entirely from gentlemen who are on his pay roll.

Mr. Bryan's desire to have his campaign conducted by volunteers will not be greeted with enthusiasm by the regulars.

A convention is being held in Ohio to devise new ways to tax the people. The old way seems to have been at least sure.

It has proved a great thing for everybody during the stringency that Uncle Sam had those few dollars in his jeans.

It will be a strange sight to witness the Legislature of California doing something that will prove a benefit to the people.

When last seen Dr. John R. Haynes was devoting a large share of his attention to the new game called "Bump the bump."

A record should be kept of the pessimists and calamity howlers. It is they who have caused nine-tenths of the trouble.

In the meantime the Governor should appoint a committee to tickle Sacramento under the nose with a feather in order to wake her up.

We suppose that the gold that has been coming to America from Europe was mostly what American tourists spent there last summer.

As we look back it is plain that the Fathers of the Republic were very wise men, because they did so little that we can afford to change.

Another thing about the motto was that it was strictly undenominational except as it appeared on the different denominations of the coin.

We think Asst. Dist. Atty. Dobyns would be stronger before the jury in the Walsh case if he spelled his name in the good, old-fashioned way.

An army of hoboes is headed for Los Angeles to enjoy the warm climate. The police must be prepared to make the climate too warm for them.

Perhaps the main reason that the public does not appear grateful to "Doc" Haynes is that it did not ask him for assistance in the first place.

"It only remains for the Democratic party to convince the public that it can be entrusted with the work of reform," says Mr. Bryan. Yes, there's the rub.

"The only man who can defeat Mr. Bryan" will be appointed in the next Republican national convention. The gentleman's name will be announced later.

There are but four original jokes and they have now all been located right here in Los Angeles. E. Toopoor Earl is one and "Doc" Haynes is the other three.

"It is fortunate for President Roosevelt that he is personally more popular than his suggestion to omit the motto, 'In God We Trust' from the coin of the realm."

The announcement sent out by Miss Helen Roosevelt that "any woman can get married by going to Panama," is probably made in the interest of the steamship companies.

A number of marines were seen to take against a large building yesterday and give vent to derisive laughter. A walking delegate was telling them that this town is run by labor unions.

In one way it is a bad thing for the navy to have allowed so many sailors to see Los Angeles. Instead of remembering their duty all want to come here to live after their terms of service expire.

It is also well for President Roosevelt that he is known to be a few while in the Dutch Reformed church while this war about the motto is choosing itself from one end of the country to the other.

Those wise editors who are saying that the defeat of Bryan in Cleveland is a defeat for President Roosevelt are a happy lot of idiots, truly. If Roosevelt were again a candidate for the Presidency it would take a couple of days to count the majority that Cleveland would roll up for him.

WILSON AND THE OTHER YELLOW DOGS

Gov. Gillett most beautifully parried on his sore-headed critics when he improved the first opportunity that came to him to legally pave the way for the removal of Railroad Commissioner Wilson of San Francisco (self-confessed crook) by calmly and curtly announcing that one of the five measures to be considered by the special session of the Legislature would be the decapitation of this rogue.

Several fanatical newspapers, who cannot conceal their chagrin over the drubbing that Gov. Gillett gave them at the polls, have been stupidly and villainously thrusting at the Governor because he has not executed Wilson, although there was no possible way for him to do so. They have abused him with billingsgate and invective for not accomplishing the impossible.

Gov. Gillett has held his peace, not deigning to notice these attacks. His action is worthy of the honest, independent, fearless and four-square man that he is. Of his own initiative he makes the punishment of this yellow dog one of the features of the call for the special session. He simply says: "Wilson will be removed; the Legislature will have to remove him."

Once more the hypocritical muck-rakers are put to shame by one touch of courage and sincerity.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

It is likely that when Congress meets among the things to be recommended by the President will be incorporating in whatever amendments shall be proposed for the banking laws the establishing of postal savings banks throughout the country.

The Postmaster-General, Mr. Von Meyer, has become convinced that such banks would be of great advantage to the country. The Postmaster-General has seen the workings of these institutions in Europe during his residence abroad as Ambassador for the United States at Amsterdam.

The objection heretofore made against such savings banks is that they would interfere with the banking business of the citizens of the country. That would undoubtedly be a valid objection if it could be shown that the interference would follow. The Postmaster-General and the President do not see that such would be the effect. It is not likely that the government would pay above 2 per cent. interest per annum on deposits in its institutions. In such case, only very small depositors would avail themselves generally of the opportunity afforded, or the small number of our people who in their general ignorance of banking principles and practices are unnecessarily lacking in confidence in banks and bankers.

The great advantage of establishing these postal savings banks would be the encouragement of small savings by people who now practice no economy whatever. Another advantage Mr. Meyer points out would be to retain in this country the savings of persons of foreign birth who, with misgivings as to the solvency of the ordinary bank and the responsibility of the ordinary banker, prefer to send their savings to their native country, where they may be deposited in such savings banks with a government guarantee.

We can see very clearly that at the present time the large sums of money unnecessarily and foolishly withdrawn from the channels of trade by unscrupulous and grossly ignorant persons would not be hidden in safety deposit boxes and other places where there is no security for the money if there were a bank in the town where a government guarantee would stand behind the deposits. There is estimated to be over $500,000,000 at the present time thus withdrawn from useful circulation and hidden away. It is obvious that, could this cash be returned to the channels of trade, the money stringency would be removed in twenty-four hours. If there were postal savings banks, guaranteed by the Federal government, this money would be in these government banks from which it could be distributed as surplus in the treasury. With the government interest at 2 per cent. (whereas the ordinary savings bank pays 4), the great bulk of savings would remain as now in the ordinary savings banks. The enlightened business man and woman, who know something about banking and the safeguards thrown around deposits, would do business as they are doing it now—getting twice the income from their deposits which use timid and ignorant could derive from the government savings bank.

A pessimist is a man who, when he sees a toad-foot in the seat of another man's trousers, goes up to him and tells him that next week he will be compelled to go around in a barrel and that there won't be any barrels either.

SET-BACKS FOR UNIONS.

The Musicians' Union which tried to hold up a grand opera company in Los Angeles has just come off second best in a conflict with the Canadian militia; in fact it has lost a note, a bank note for $25, which it paid in the shape of a fine for interfering with the members of a band that wore King Edward's uniform.

For some time past the Musicians' Union has been trying to lay down the law to bands in British Columbia. It succeeded in making life miserable for the members of several private musical organizations and then it turned its attention to the bands attached to the Fifth Regiment of Artillery at Victoria, B. C., and the Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles at Vancouver. The officers of the former regiment, seeing that the laborers were spilling for a fight, decided to give them one. The union tried to prevent open-shop musicians playing with the regimental band. The local secretary of the union was promptly haled before the police magistrate who found him guilty of interfering with members of the band while in the uniform of the Canadian militia. This is an offense punishable by fine or imprisonment. The court imposed a penalty of $25 or ten days in jail, and the union paid the fine.

The decision is far-reaching; indeed it extends from the Pacific to the Atlantic. It affects the union all over Canada. Every member of every regimental band in Victoria to Halifax is safe from molestation by the walking delegates of the union. "The Musicians' Union has got a decided set-back," is the way Vancouver newspapers refer to the decision. But it has received more than a set-back; it has been effaced altogether as far as the regimental bands of Canada are concerned. It has met the army and has been annihilated.

In another part of the British empire the unionites have also played a losing game. In New Zealand, the cradle of freak labor legislation, the Court of Appeal has decided that strikers refusing to pay a fine imposed on them for taking part in a strike are liable to imprisonment. A few months ago the laborers at Wellington, N. Z., went on strike. New Zealand recently passed an act designed to prevent strikes and to punish strikers. This act is called the Arbitration Act and the law officers of the Dominion—New Zealand has followed the example of Canada and now calls herself a Dominion—believed that the clause of the measure was effective against strikers. The laborers did not agree with the law. The officers of the crown were quick to take action. They summoned some of the leading culprits before Judge Cooper at Wellington and he decided that workers who take part in a strike in violation of the award of the arbitration board must submit to the consequences and be fined them. In default of payment he ordered that they be jailed.

These being the first cases of the kind in New Zealand the court allowed every facility for appeal and a test case was taken to the higher court presided over by Judge Williams. The latter decided that strikers who refused to pay fines were not liable to imprisonment. The matter was not allowed to rest there. The government sought the opinion of the highest tribunal in New Zealand, the Court of Appeal, which is presided over by the Chief Justice. That court reversed the decision of Judge Williams and upheld the payment of Judge Cooper. It decided that in case of non-payment of fines law-breaking strikers could be imprisoned for a term not exceeding one year.

The New Zealand totemites have been so used to being pampered that this decision hits them hard.

WHY THE SPECIAL SESSION?

Gov. Gillett has met a general demand made by the business interests of the State and has called a special session of the Legislature of California for next Tuesday morning. The Chief Executive has had some reluctance in calling the Legislature together for the reason that such action might be misconstrued abroad when it was reported that such a step was necessary in order to provide for the relief of the taxpayers, unable to meet the tax collectors' demands under the present financial straits prevalent throughout the country. The Governor feared it might create the impression that California is hard up.

It is not because the people of this State are unable to meet such demands that the special session is necessary. California people are more forehanded than the people of perhaps any other State in the Union. A special session of the Legislature is necessary because of our decidedly peculiar laws governing the collection of taxes. The organic law of the State, adopted nearly thirty years ago, but still known as "the new constitution," embodies many erratic provisions. It was adopted in the time of the sand-lot agitation in San Francisco in the distressful days of the late seventies, when populism was rampant all over California. The convention which made the constitution was very largely composed of sand-lot holders from San Francisco and Populists from the outside districts. Of course, there was the usual quota of politicians. By the triple combination of sand-lot holders, Populists and politicians it was imbedded in the organic law that State taxes shall be payable only in gold and that all bills due by the State shall be paid in the same way. It was easy to get this clause in the constitution for the reason that throughout the time of the Civil War Californians unpatriotically refused to recognize the national currency usually known as "greenbacks." Commercial notes in those days were so drawn that the debt was payable only in gold coin of the United States, or in fine gold at so much per ounce, at the option of the holder of the note.

This is probably a unique provision in a State constitution. It may be questioned whether any other State felt the necessity of putting so narrow a provision in organic law. The laws of most States, made in conformity to their constitutions, impose no greater burdens upon taxpayers than on debtors of any other class.

Wherever it is known that taxes for State and county purposes and also in municipalities are to be paid in gold coin it will be understood that this session of our Legislature is called, not because of any unusual inability of California taxpayers to meet their obligations, but because of this unusually narrow constitutional restriction. There is no State in the Union today where the people could generally obtain gold coin or any kind of legal tender to pay all the State, county and municipal taxes.

The Legislature will not be able to do away with this constitutional provision. Taxes are payable in two semi-annual installments and the unpaid taxes become delinquent in the last days of November and the last days of April. Delinquent taxes on the first day of December are encumbered with a penalty of 15 per cent. and if delinquent still upon the first of May are burdened with a still further delinquency penalty of 5 per cent. The Legislature is called to extend the time of paying taxes by a month or more in order to give time for the financial flurry prevailing all over the country to pass away, and the banks to resume general specie payments, and thus relieve the taxpayers from the burden of the added penalty on taxes that become delinquent.

WEALTH GALORE.

Why should the farmers of San Bernardino county worry about money stringencies or bankers' troubles? The New York stock market may go up, go down, or refuse to go at all; but like the brook of the poet, the stream of wealth among these farmers goes on forever. It flows from New Year's Day past Fourth of July, is brimful Thanksgiving Day, and is as swift when the year ends as when it began.

The crops of that county brought $18,238,010 during the season 1906-7. Note the variety of these crops! Oranges brought over $7,000,000 and lemons much over $1,000,000. These $8,000,000 were coming in every day of the season. There is not a day in the twelve months that money is not coming in for citrus fruit. Drieddoods and vegetables come sandwiched in between, the fruits in the summer months, the vegetables mostly in winter, and the combined revenues add $1,267,000 to the receipts from citrus fruits. These are for the natural products. Canned fruits and vegetables add $332,000, and dried fruits and nuts again $245,500.

It is not all fruits and vegetables. There is not all fruits and vegetables. There is plain farming, too. Grain brings in $140,675, and hay $681,570. The vineyard products of San Bernardino county, converted into beverages, are worth $403,460, and the wool from the flocks of sheep $8000. Dairy products stand for $109,235, and little side issues, eggs and poultry, pay $197,925. This is not a land of forests, but the forest products of that county bring $230,220.

The products of the soil and those of the woods being taken account of, we now are asked to consider the wealth dug from beneath the surface and are informed that its mines pay $1,725,675. In so rich a section the much per ounce, at the option of the holder of the note.

This is probably a unique provision in a State constitution. It may be questioned whether any other State felt the necessity of putting so narrow a provision in organic law. ## A TALE OF A HAT.

A Tragedy in Three Parts.
PART I: THE HAT.
A bit of foundation as big as your head.
Bows of ribbon and lace;
Wire sufficient to make them stand.
A handful of roses, a velvet band—
It lacks but one crowning grace.

PART II: THE BIRD.
A chirp, a twitter, a flash of wings,
Four wide-open mouths in a nest;
For morning till night she brings and
For growing birds, they are hungry things—
Ay, hungry things at the best.
The crack of a rifle, a shot well sped;
A crimson stain on the grass;
Four hungry birds in a nest, unfed—
Ah, well! We may leave the rest unaid.
Some things it were better to pass.

PART III: THE WEAVER.
The lady has surely a beautiful face,
She has surely a queenly air,
The hat had flowers and ribbon and
But the bird has added the crowning grace—
It is really a charming affair.
Is the love of a hat supreme over all,
In a lady so faultlessly fair?
The Father takes heed when the sparrows fall.
He hears when the starving nestlings call.
Can a tender woman not care?
W. D. COWLEY.

HOROSCOPE FOR THIS DAY.
Saturday, November 10, 1907.
Now put new enterprises to the test.
The moon stars a triumph thou wilt wear.
The 20th day of the year. Moon's age, 11 days. The moon is on the Equator. Venus and Jupiter are in benefic aspect with it.
This day push mightily all new enterprises. Put them to the touch. Enter into new contracts. Reach for new connections. Press fast behind the brave mood.
Buy, sell and promote new business. Particularly lucky are these twenty-four hours for opening new shops, factories, salesrooms or offices.
A combful day, however, for dealings between the sexes. Quarrels impending.
Quick hoofs sound menace. Danger threatens an important person.
Those whose birthdate this is will have a restless year and will probably travel considerably. Men will do well to let disputes with employees affect their business. Those in employment must be particularly careful in this twelfth month. Women will either marry or play a part in others' matrimonial affairs.
The girl born today will be inclined to restlessness and will have an unsettled disposition. If not checked in early youth this will lead her to marry unwisely.
The boy born today will be fortunate in business, and will save money.

manufacturer finds room to live and his finished products are worth $4,806,115.

Last year was peculiarly good in San Bernardino; but the year before the county added to the wealth of the world $15,085,229.

Where the manufacturers figure for 25 per cent. of the produced wealth and the products of the soil and mines for 75 per cent., business depression will not count for much. That is why Southern California goes on prospering and increasing in population during any dull times that come over the country.

STREAKS OF HUMOR.

Why It Is Wrong.
Sue: A southern preacher says it is wrong for a girl to allow a man to kiss her.
Mayme: Of course, it's wrong. Good gracious! It wasn't necessary for a southern preacher to tell us that. I knew the first time a man ever kissed me that it must be wrong—because it was so nice.—(Chicago Record-Herald. Gets Suspicious.)

"John, do you love me?"
"Yes."
"Do you adore me?"
"I adore you."
"What do you always love me?"
"To look like you, woman, what have you been and gone and ordered sent home now?"—(Louisville Courier-Journal.)

Why He Was There.
Geyer was standing on the sidewalk as a wedding party came down the church steps.
"What are you doing there?" queried his friend Myer, who happened along just then.
"Watching the tied go out," answered Geyer, with an open-faced grin.—(Chicago News.)

Obadiah: Looks as though this here man Hughes was the dark horse in the Presidential campaign.
Hezekiah: Dark horse nothin'! He's the red autumobile, 's'pose!—(Puck.)

"You wait on him," said the jeweler.

THE INCUBUS

BY S.R. CROCKETT

CHAPTER XXI.

WIND-BLOWN STRAWS.

Thirty years ago Kirktown feared God. Today it feared only Incubus, Romer & Co. But the time was coming when the fear of the Lord was to get a second chance. The originator of the company had been a certain Johann Inkh, who had located the coal and bought the land. His daughter, Sophia, married one Jacob Gorm of Shorby, a man filled with the love of gold, and after him his nephew, Jacob Gorm, had developed the small workings of the Dusseldorf chemists into the vast coal and iron combination known as the Incubus Companies. It had occurred to the founder when he married, to Latinize his name, if only for his own sake. "Mr. Johann Inkh" had a strange new foreign sound, but Mrs. John Inkh, pronounced aloud, sounded rather like the wife of a possible peer.

Still, it was the money made by Jacob Gorm at the close of the century that had been utilized to develop the discoveries of the original Inkh. The tree lay very deep and the working of it was expensive. But under his nephew, Jacob Romer, little by little every inch was taken shape. He had the great gift of selecting suitable instruments. For instance, he needed a strong man, because an unscrupulous man was a necessity to him. Hector McKill, a leader of the Valley Kirk, was chosen for his chief standstill. He had a country of uproarious good cheer, where the bottle circles and where song and merriment mock the rigidity of Calvinistic manners.

For this reason Walter Grindling was manager of No. 2. Grindling had no use for prayer meetings. He made the faintest pretensions to religion. He had the great gift of selecting suitable instruments. For instance, he needed a strong man, because an unscrupulous man was a necessity to him. Hector McKill, a leader of the Valley Kirk, was chosen for his chief standstill. He had a country of uproarious good cheer, where the bottle circles and where song and merriment mock the rigidity of Calvinistic manners.

In the Incubus pits this division of labor did very well. Grindling had no use for prayer meetings. He made the faintest pretensions to religion. He had the great gift of selecting suitable instruments. For instance, he needed a strong man, because an unscrupulous man was a necessity to him. Hector McKill, a leader of the Valley Kirk, was chosen for his chief standstill. He had a country of uproarious good cheer, where the bottle circles and where song and merriment mock the rigidity of Calvinistic manners.

And on the whole the men so dealt with, when they came to compare notes, agreed in preferring Grindling's rough. "We've seen you for years, and get out of this!" to the suaver methods of Hector McKill. As Phil Calmont went home that night, once more "out of a job," though not without a purpose in the world, he paused and looked at the mounds of refuse and shale spread out everywhere, the complexity of level crossings and multi-colored railway signals, the tall stagings of the pits, with swiftly-spinning wheels, whirling and reversing as they wound had on the endless steel cords. Phil had the gift of imagination, and he would see beneath him the heads of Kirktown before all this came to pass—the quiet, old-fashioned white-washed hamlet, the scattered rooms of the corn stacks, the shy quivering babies with their mouths stained with blackberry.

But beyond these the woods still stood up untainted all about—except, that is, for a dingy skirting of pines and firs straggling about the emerald banks. The lower branches of these had been burned brown by the furnace fumes, whereas the trees of the neighboring landings, having threatened proceedings, Jacob Romer had bought up his stock and stock and barrel. This, however, was a mere fringe. It seemed as if the smell of eternal woodiness was without a barrier against the encroachments of the desecrated lower valley, which at the bidding of Incubus & Co. had been given up to smoke and flame and rubbish heaps.

Day followed day, and always at the Globe End Cottage, where Jacob Romer's horses passed at full speed down the avenue, the wheels making no noise over the elastic carpet of pine needles; then, with a sudden rasp of gravel and the noise of hoofs drumming on hard pavement, turning at right angles toward the Incubus Works in the valley.

These were the days when Vic Morris, a disgraced man, was seeking any rest for the sole of his foot, and when Jacob Romer, whose office was at the natural faculty for organization, went and came to Kirktown, sometimes twice in one day. No chance had been made in Dick Finnan's position by the departure of Vic Morris. He had indeed, a greater responsibility than before. Because, in the absence of a regular underground engineer, James Kahn went down every day, and so far as pit No. 2 was concerned, Dick Finnan carried out his orders, or modified them according to his liking.

For though Dick only saw Vic for short moments and at long intervals, Phil Calmont came to the Globe End Cottage every evening in his place. And so far as Dick and the other overseers had any power, they were at the will of Vic Morris. The pit was that their power was so limited. Because it was with grim characteristic energy that Jacob Romer ruled, when at last, weary of tools, he set his own hand to the plow, as in the days of yore.

Of course, Phil was seen coming and going to the Globe Cottage. Everything was public property in Kirktown. Everything commented on. But then Phil had a position. His sneering ambitions were not known. He had always been considered as a worthless character, without ambition, without future—just "in of the Calmonts." If in his folly he added one to the list of the Calmonts, he would have to search his wings, at his own risk and peril. Yet so far as the workings were concerned it was through him and Dick Finnan that Vic communicated with the pitmen, the band foremen, and the masses of so many cubic feet of extraneous ore upon the working faces.

Vic himself kept away, being certain that his presence at Globe End would procure the speedy dismissal of Dick Finnan, the end of his own usefulness.

In the pits, and the expulsion of Vida and Dick out of the pretty cottage at the woodside. Indeed, it was difficult enough to obtain suitable accommodation in a town where all, more or less, were dependent on Incubus, Romer & Co. for daily bread.

Mr. Irongray would gladly have given him shelter. The Camptonian minister was Vic's firm friend, and often the two discussed together of the things above, upon, and under, the earth till 2 in the morning, and the summer sun peeped in reproachfully from all around the study blinds. But then, a rain would such a course be fair to the struggling little Camptonian congregation of Kirktown, with the financial burden of whose upkeep its most important member charged himself? For Jacob Romer provided more than half the minister's stipend, saw to the repairs of the church, and out of his own pocket recompensed the preacher and his family. For himself, Benjamin Irongray was quite willing to give up all these advantages. But his cousin pointed out to him that the congregation was so scanty in numbers that however willing they might be to pay him a living wage, and to carry on the work of the congregation, they were not able—practically the whole of them depending upon Jacob's generosity. Therefore, in all probability, the Kirk of the Hill would shut him up. From this decision only one dissatisfied—Richard Finnan, ruling elder—who was willing that he and his minister alike should dare all things for the sake of their flock. But this decision there came another offer. Dreading, detached, his dour hair cast back in a poetic curve from his broad unwrinkled brow, the Rev. John Fowler, who had been in the Kirk, strolled across to Vic's lodgings, where he was under a week's notice to quit.

"I hear you are turned out," he said. "So we—we was my father, I mean in the year 63, at the Disruption. I feel for you, Mr. Morris. My friend and yours, Ben-I mean, Mr. Irongray of the Kirk on the Hill—has taken one of your positions. If it be your will to enter my house as a guest, I and my family will be glad to have you. It is true," said Vic Morris, "that I present it would not suit me to quit Kirktown, and that for many reasons. A situation has been proposed to me at the mines of Rio Tinto in Spain. But that I will have to wait. I have a feeling that I may be of use here. Sooner later—and I believe rather sooner than later—the Incubus Company will get the fall it is riding for."

But he broke off short with a look at his visitor (who sat his chair in a fine disorder, making a sort of halo about his head). "You also have those connected with the works in high place in your congregation—Hector McKill, I think, an elder of yours? Can you get the fall it is riding for?"

The Rev. John Fowler sketched a little gesture of carelessness, which, like all that he did with his hands, was beautiful to see. John Fowler, whom Hector McKill called Abolom, could not do an unkind action if it had been offered him. He had a gentle kindness of the mouth—from which, however, dropped all unexpected, pearls of wit and quiet irony, when after long you came to know the man. "Unless what?" said the minister, smiling.

"You allow me to pay—let us say—what I pay here or a little more for the superior accommodation. John Fowler lifted his hands as if to put that part of the question away once and for all.

"My daughter, Janet," he said, "does her best. But you will have no superior accommodation. Ours is a poor house—the house of a man, with a flock of children to educate and little enough to do it on. Not that I take much to do with that—no, my shame be it spoken—hand her money to my daughter when it comes in, and there is an end to it. I have no doubt, but I am sure, that your statement of any extra expense to which your presence may put her. But that is better, you say any her. You will understand that I do not wish to place you under any obligation."

"You place me under a very great one," declared Vic Morris, "and I should have had to leave the place in case of trouble. I am sure you would be greatly rewarded."

"You are welcome," said John Fowler, "and I am sure your presence in my house an honor!"

"The minister opened up his palms with a movement expressive of infinite scorn. "He wears me, this good Mr. McKill," he said, "he does the meanest actions all week, and then on prayer-meeting night he will take up half-an-hour praying for 'the spread of perfect sinlessness among professing Christians.' On Sunday he sends round requests to the vestry that we may sing his favorite paraphrase."

"That to perfection's sacred heights We nearer still may rise. Beside which his wife takes in The Prophetic Herald, and wears my soul into tatters with her 'little horns' and her 'time and times' and 'half-times.'"

So it was arranged on the spot that Vic should move down to the Valley Manse with all his "props" that very night. Janet would have a room ready for him, and though Alf and Jim would be a little cramped for space in the garret, they were used to it, and could always get by. Besides which his wife takes in The Prophetic Herald, and wears my soul into tatters with her 'little horns' and her 'time and times' and 'half-times.'" nounce upon the work, and had found it very good. Which taken in connection with the fussy silken locks tossed back from his temples with the habitually graceful gesture, was in its way a benediction.

Vic was frankly delighted. There seemed to be nothing wanting. A fairly had foreseen and planned everything. During the day the bed in the corner was shut off by a screen of many foldings. But as Vic Morris was accustomed to read in bed, a little table held ready a couple of tall candles and a box of matches.

Then a big, well-lighted work table stood in one of the windows, of the solid planned deal, which would not be hurt by split chemicals or multiplied asperations of ink. Shelves of books stood empty in the angle. Only about the central table and by the side were three carpets and rugs. For the rest Vic could prattle, as he loved to do, on bare, clean boards. Two cupboards, one large, deep and unsheathed, for his books and boots, and the other, which closed with a lock and key, completed his bliss.

Janet it was who showed him over, her father beaming mildly in the background. "I declare, magic—absolute magic!" cried Vic, "why, it is what I have dreamed of but never thought of realizing. How I shall ever go away, I do not know."

"You have not been so long in possession yet," said Janet, quietly, though with a touch of her father's irony, "that there is any pressing need to speak about that!"

"But there is one thing, Miss Janet," said the tall young man, still, however, uncomfortably enough. "I must arrange with you—I have been accustomed to pay sixteen shillings a week for my rooms, taking my meals out—"

Janet held up her hand with something of her father's grace of gesture, but with far more of command.

"In the proper time I shall present you with your weekly statement," she said, with a quiet imperiousness which utterly silenced Vic, who found himself muttering as he watched the authoritative housewife. "How could I ever have thought that she was plain?"

RICH ORE FROM COMSTOCK REACHES LOS ANGELES

AN EXHIBITION BY THE NEVADA MINING, REDUCTION AND POWER COMPANY FOR A FEW DAYS.

The Greatest Gold and Silver Producing Section in all the United States. This Rich Ore Will Interest Every Mining Man in Southern California.

The Wells-Fargo Express Company has recently made delivery of a shipment of ore samples from the great Comstock Lode to the Nevada Mining, Reduction and Power Company's fiscal office at 512 South Broadway. Mr. James Austin Larson, who has in charge their stock selling campaign, is quite jubilant in his exhibition of "pay dirt" from this great property. This is the ore that Captain Davis with his famous Chloro-Cyanide method is turning into bullion at a very commendable rate every day. Reports of such engineers as George Klinghury of Los Angeles indicate a tremendous supply on the 29 claims comprising their holdings in the great Silver City district. Comstock Lode bids fair to soon take on much of its old-time vigor and prestige through the phenomenal results obtained upon the ore of this famous region by this same Chloro-Cyanide Method. Ore as low as $3 per ton will yield a good profit to the operator, through this new method. We say new, though it was in 1902 that Capt. Davis secured a patent on the method, since which time he has been building and equipping plants for its use upon the property of the Company, of which he is President. The ore now on exhibition at 512 South Broadway, is a selected lot of average value, from, and representing the several properties now under operation by the Company, and these samples represent bodies of millions of dollars in extent—to be more exact, according to engineers' reports over $4,000,000 in gross value. Capt. Davis says that by his method of extraction he can and will secure over four million dollars in bullion after paying for cost of mining, milling, etc. While there may be talk of hard times in some quarters, a scarcity of real wealth as expressed in currency, Captain Davis and his co-workers are doing everything in their power to supply a liberal amount of actual gold and silver. Ore of the richness of that now shown will do the business. If you want to see something good for "sore eyes," so to speak, just drop in to Mr. Larson's office, Room D, second floor, 512 South Broadway and look over these splendid ore samples.

TURN FROM OIL TO THE ROCK.

ROAD COMMISSIONERS VISIT ABOUT PASADENA.

With Correspondent. Officers of San Bernardino County They Go Over Roads of the Crown of the Valley and Study Proposed Routes for the Foothill Boulevard.

PASADENA, Nov. 15.—Definite steps were taken to map out the boulevard from the sea to San Bernardino when C. D. Daggett, as chairman of the Oiled Roads Commission, entertained the members of the San Bernardino commission and those from Los Angeles at luncheon yesterday at the Pasadena Hotel.

Prior to the luncheon, the Pasadena commission and the San Bernardino commission were in session in the hotel. The Pasadena commission was held in the hotel. The Pasadena commission was held in the hotel.

It is the intention to construct this roadway in the best possible manner from Pasadena to Redlands, the road running through Monrovia, Azusa, San Bernardino, and then to Redlands. It is also proposed to continue this boulevard later to the sea, via Los Angeles. Some other roads than the present boulevard will have to be supplemented by another and better road.

The present road, where it continues from the Huntington boulevard, is not rock founded, and it is the experience of every road builder in this section that no oiled road will stand up without rutting deeply unless it is built of proper layers of crushed rock, duly graduated for the purpose.

The present boulevard, while a fine ordinary oiled road, is already rilling with ruts wherever the roadbed has been subjected to much travel. It is, therefore, though necessary to build a better road before the highway commission ceases its work in that there may be one fine main highway from the sea to the interior counties.

After a tour around every place of interest here, the party left for Long Beach. In the San Bernardino commission was Chairman George Colwell, A. D. Moore of Ontario and W. A. Nichols of Redlands.

Chairman Colwell announced that it was the intention of the San Bernardino commission to work in perfect harmony with the members of the Los Angeles county roadbuilding commission and to especially cooperate in the construction of this great and important boulevard so that it could in future be the first link of a road that could continue from the State capital and make travel not only easy but would pass through the most picturesque scenes of this lovely region.

Ten workmen employed in erecting the tower for the new telephoto on Mt. Wilson struck yesterday for a peculiar and trivial reason. They were attacked with the idea of getting a day when they took the work and labored along willingly until some worded advanced the idea that they might get more money as the tower progressed. Eventually the argument was the higher up in the air the bigger the pay.

After two or three days of sultry work brought about by the ill-fitting of the men walked down the hill today and refused to labor longer. Superintendent G. D. Jones, says that he was told that the men were ill and refused to labor longer. Superintendent G. D. Jones, says that he was told that the men were ill and refused to labor longer.

At the meeting today were representatives of Glendora, Azusa, Covina and other sections interested. Steps were taken today to build of light structure and the strike can hardly be understood as if the men obtain work in Los Angeles, they will have to move heavy girders and handle big pieces of iron. Here the work was light and merely because the men thought they had the Carnegie institution at a disadvantage they struck, but their demands were rejected and they said they would not work until they got all the money they need at the regular pay and that the work will not be retarded in the least.

REASON FOR PROSPERITY. In speaking of the reason for the promised prosperity of the coming winter, D. M. Linn, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the business men and capitalists. Other-wise they could not leave their business so long. I have no doubt that the reason for the unprecedented rush that is expected in the coming winter. Our reservations are further increased this year than they have usually been in December. Now there must be a cause for this. From laborers, and other men, I have reasoned it out that this class of retired business men who rely upon investment of their capital for their income are getting 6 and 7 per cent for their mortgages and loans, whereas last year they got only 5 per cent, at the highest.

"This has been going on for months. Hence more and more of these people think they can afford an unusually long vacation. Our experience at the Maryland and our other hotels is duplicated in every large resort in Pasadena, and the whole of Southern California. All hotel keepers are figuring on the greatest crowd of tourists and long sojourners that the country has ever known. It must be that these people are realizing a harvest because when money is tight with this class they are thrifty far beyond the ideas of the ordinary man who spends his income without looking to the future. We are going to have a great winter. It is success is already assured, as we all know by the number of reservations made during the past two months for the month of December, and the remainder of the season far into the spring."

"There is little or no need for fear of a stringency of money in Southern California."

PASADENA NEWS NOTES. Carl Thomas, son of Frank H. Thomas of No. 10 North Los Robles avenue, assistant treasurer of the Pasadena Savings Bank, was knocked down by a car and team owned by Phil Phillips. The wagon passed over the boy's hip and abdomen. The horses became frightened by a speck of blood, and ran and ran boy down. He is dangerously wounded.

Pasadena's High School football team will play the first eleven of its season today at the treatment of $120,000. Whittier will play from 12:00 o'clock. Whittier will play from 12:00 o'clock. Whittier will play from 12:00 o'clock.

Whittier has had hard luck in losing the percentage necessary to gain permission to play on the eleven, and since of her men are not well equipped for the sturdy game. Hence her decisions of several good games.

Mrs. Kate Nyce, 54 years old, died last night at the residence of her husband, Calvin S. Nyce, No. 234 Marmon avenue. The funeral will be held at the family residence Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Bradly, who is employed in the Pasadena News Notes.

Good Roads Advocates Complete Tour of Santa Monica Bay Are United on Plan.

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 15.—San Bernardino, Pasadena and Los Angeles boulevard and good roads advocates have just completed a tour of the bay. They came to love the foothill route, and were so charmed with conditions and the road that they are united as to the feasibility of the project, which has for its object the connecting of Pasadena, Lancaster, Azusa, Glendora and Claremont with the sea. All of the way the road is to skirt the mountains and those who have been to it are enthusiastic.

REASONS NOTES. Charles Heimer was sent to the County Jail today to serve a term of ninety days. His conviction was on the charge of vagrancy, but as the young man is mentally unbalanced, it is thought he will be again sent to the asylum. His delusion is that he is about to be kidnapped and sent to the United States in order to ward off his supposed pursuers he is armed with big knives and guns.

The police officers are close on the trail of the robbers who drove up with a wagon and helped themselves generously to provisions from the O'Connell grocery store at the corner of Third and Grand. The thieves happened to possess a key that would open the front door, and with their wagon to help them they entered the place and carried away about $100 worth of eggs, bacon, apples, cigars and tobacco.

The baseball game to be played here Sunday with the Morans will find the Southern Pacific grounds in prime condition. This is the second game of the winter league.

JILTED. CHOKER SCHEME FAILS TO KILL. PRISONER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN LONG BEACH.

With Strips of Blanket Tied Around His Neck He Leaps from Top of Cell but the Plan Does Not Work and He Gets a Severe Jolt on the Jail Floor.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 15.—James Burns, a prisoner in the City Jail, attempted suicide this afternoon, but failed because the blanket used as a noose was too long.

Burns is charged with the murder of a woman on Chestnut avenue, who spurned his attentions. The jilted lover sought to drown his sorrow in strong drink. With a lot of liquor he went to the home of his adored one this morning and attempted to force an entrance. The timely arrival of Mounted Police men saved the woman from harm.

They signed the petition on the understanding that they would be given the chance to decide the question, forgetting that the territory in and around Pomona has the largest population.

At an early hour this evening Maj. J. J. Myers, commander of the Marines on the ships, gave an order for shore drill. Two hundred men reported for duty at the shore drill. The operations immediately affected consisted of a six-mile stretch of road from the shore to the river. The Pacific Lumber Company, owner of the immense redwood lumber tract on the coast, has a large force of axmen and loggers at work clearing the timber to a wide of the shore. The road right of way, and the railroad has a small gang of men operating a bulldozer to clear the road. ## DAY CHECKS ARE FREELY CASHED

MUCH MONEY TURNED LOOSE IN SAN BERNARDINO.

Santa Fe Distributes Hundred Thousand Dollars to the Shopmen. Policemen in Pursuit of Players of the Game of Fan-Tan Take Off Side of Shack to Get to Them.

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 15.—The Santa Fe company turned loose $100,000 among the shopmen and other employees here today. The money, as usual, was represented in checks, and these were freely cashed at all the banks and stores. The way bankers and merchants took care of the unusual flood of checks demonstrated the sound financial basis on which the banks of the city are resting. There is evidently no money stringency here. Building is just as active in all parts of town, and many new contracts for dwellings were let during the week, a feeling of confidence being everywhere evident.

BREAKS INTO SHACK.

Policemen Granger tore down a Chinese shack to get into a game of fan-tan at an early hour this morning in Chinatown. He had been attracted by the jabbering of the Mongolians, and looking between the boards, saw some fifteen Chinese about the game, while stacks of money were on display.

SEEKING RELEASE.

After serving ten years of a life sentence in San Quentin, Louis Ortega, a Mexican, is preparing to petition for release on parole. He has communicated his intentions to the local authorities. Ortega killed a Mexican in the heat of passion ten years ago, and was found guilty of murder in the second degree. He comes of a wealthy and famous Spanish family, whose history is part of the history of the Pacific Slope. It is thought that no system of parole to present his attaining his desired freedom will be made.

BEGIN CHURCH CENSUS.

The San Bernardino Sunday-school Association has commenced a church census in this city. It is proposed to make a house-to-house canvass and ascertain the religious beliefs and holdings of the various residents. Those who are found to have "leanings" but are non-church-goers, will be the target for prayers and personal ministrations from the members of the denominations to which they confess to "lean."

DOES NOT USE SCRIP.

Elsinore Paying Out Coin Right Along. Even Sends Gold to Los Angeles.

ELSINORE, Nov. 15.—The Consolidated Bank of Elsinore reports that not only is it paying out coin instead of scrip, but that several Los Angeles customers who cannot get hold of coin to pay their taxes have secured it here.

PLANTING SYSTEM.

Local Growth Means Increase in Electric Heat. Money to Enlarge.

Nov. 15.—The rapid growth of the city in the past year of that city is being met by the planters, and known as the "planting system," is being used to meet the demand for the city's needs.

DROWNING INTENTIONAL.

Body Found in San Diego Bay Was That of Young Man Who Had Committed Suicide.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 15.—That Fred Barlow, the young man whose body was found in the bay a few days ago, and whose drowning was supposed to have been due to an accident, ended his own life, is evident from the finding of a note in a bottle on the water front, in which the writer, the signature being that of Fred Barlow, asked whether he had been killed or not, and that it was all off between them, as he had ended his life in the bay. "God be with her till we meet again" was the closing sentence of the note. The note is that Barlow had had trouble with another man over the woman.

OCEANSIDE.

Oceanside, Nov. 15.—Among the Los Angeles hunters at the hotel this week are C. J. Black, C. H. Campbell, J. G. Smith, R. C. McClay, F. E. Dillon and David Katz. They expect to stay here for a week or more, as they get all the quail the law allows in a few hours. Mr. Katz piloted Mr. Black down here several weeks ago, and also the Jim Hoop party on the 3rd inst.

ORANGE.

Orange, Nov. 15.—Edward Gray, a rancher living northeast of Orange, was the victim of a peculiar accident yesterday evening. He had been having a young team of horses shod at a blacksmith shop, and as he was hitching them up a passing automobile frightened the team and they started to run. Gray tried to catch the lines, but slipped and fell against one of the horses, which kicked him, breaking his right leg above the knee.

BILLINGSLEY-PLINTH.

One of the most beautiful weddings in this vicinity took place late yesterday afternoon, at the foothill home of Ray Billingsley, when his daughter, Helen May, was united in marriage to Stuart J. Plintham of San Francisco. Rev. George M. Morrison, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Pasadena, performed the ceremony, using the Episcopal ring service. The house was decorated with Cecil Bruner roses and ferns, the ceremony being under a shower of these roses and ferns.

ENTHUSIASTIC.

Mr. and Mrs. Plintham left immediately for the East by way of Grand Canyon. After two months they will return to California to make their home in San Francisco.

WINERIES RAIDED BY NIGHT IN ORANGE COUNTY.

District Attorney and Sheriff Act in Unison With the Result That Some Old Offenders Are Taken Into Custody—Santa Ana Couple's Golden Wedding Celebration.

SANTA ANA, Nov. 15.—Three wineries, charged with illegal liquor selling, were raided last evening by officers accompanied by Dist. Atty. S. M. Davis and Sheriff Theodore Lacy. The men arrested were Joseph Young and George and Louis Yung of the two wineries northeast of Santa Ana, and Prudencia Yorba of the winery at Peralta, in the Santa Ana Cañon.

It took two wagons to haul away the score of barrels of whiskey and brandy taken at George Yung's winery. Quantities of wine were taken from the other wineries.

Dist. Atty. Davis followed the same procedure in these cases, that he did in the four other raids made by him in the last five months. First he sent the detectives to the places to buy liquor and followed that up with a raid on the winery.

Sheriff Lacy and Deputy District Attorney A. W. Ruffan served the warrants on Joseph Young, and searched his place. Young was behind the bar about to serve customers. As soon as the officers came in, he said, in a loud voice to these customers: "I can't get you the vinegar you want, just now. Dist. Atty. Davis, Constable C. E. Jackson and Officer James Murray took in the winery run by George and Louis Yung and the Peralta winery. Last July Young and the Yungs were fined $250 apiece and given suspended sentences of ninety days each, and the period of their probation was up the first of November.

The winery men have claimed that they have a constitutional right to sell anything they can manufacture. That right is denied by the county liquor ordinance. Young's winery was caught with much goods he can scarcely claim to have manufactured, but Young and Yorba say they manufactured the wine taken from them.

The men are out on $500 bonds. In the last five months the "blind pig" raids conducted by Dist. Atty. Davis have resulted in the seizure of the county treasury, the cost of the raids and prosecutions being about $600.

FIFTY YEARS WEDDED.

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Morse of East Seventeenth street was celebrated by them and forty of their relatives to-day. The affair was a complete surprise to the couple. Dinner was served by Mrs. Genl. H. Randall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morse. A gold-headed, carved case was presented Mr. Morse, and a gold watch, given by his own people, gathered and printed by her daughters and sons.

The wedding of which today is the fiftieth anniversary was celebrated at Dekorra, Columbus county, Wis. Rev. Alfred Fish united the couple, Horace Morse and Miss Lydia E. Mend. Mr. and Mrs. Morse are well known in this community. Present at the celebration today with Mr. and Mrs. Morse were: Mrs. Rosanna Wright of Freeborn, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Morse of Chino, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Morse and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Randall of Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Palmer and Mrs. Lee, Mrs. J. H. Palmer and Mrs. R. L. Logan of Los Angeles, all of whom are relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Morse, and Mrs. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Goodwin, Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Young of Santa Ana, Mrs. M. F. Smith of Long Beach and Mr. and Mrs. S. Eastman of Los Angeles.

VICTIM OF RUNAWAY.

Orange County Ranchman Suffers From High-Forestry Inspector Takes Life Deputy.

ORANGE, Nov. 15.—Edward Gray, a rancher living northeast of Orange, was the victim of a peculiar accident yesterday evening. He had been having a young team of horses shod at a blacksmith shop, and as he was hitching them up a passing automobile frightened the team and they started to run. Gray tried to catch the lines, but slipped and fell against one of the horses, which kicked him, breaking his right leg above the knee.

BILLINGSLEY-PLINTH.

One of the most beautiful weddings in this vicinity took place late yesterday afternoon, at the foothill home of Ray Billingsley, when his daughter, Helen May, was united in marriage to Stuart J. Plintham of San Francisco. Rev. George M. Morrison, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Pasadena, performed the ceremony, using the Episcopal ring service. The house was decorated with Cecil Bruner roses and ferns, the ceremony being under a shower of these roses and ferns.

ENTHUSIASTIC.

Mr. and Mrs. Plintham left immediately for the East by way of Grand Canyon. After two months they will return to California to make their home in San Francisco.

Warning to Every Weak Man

MY FEE In Any Uncomplicated Case

Do not allow your ailment to grow until it has undermined your entire constitution and left you a hopeless wreck. I have demonstrated in my practice extending over 20 years that every ailment peculiar to men is curable if treated in time. The danger lies in delay and neglect. There are some men who hesitate to consult a doctor either because of false pride or for lack of faith in medical men. Others imagine they can successfully treat themselves at home with patent nostrums or private formulas picked up here or there. Sooner or later these same men learn that such means do not cure. But meanwhile their disease has gotten a firm hold upon them and either rendered their cases utterly hopeless or very difficult to cure. It is especially to such as these that I sound the warning. Don't delay another hour. Come to me while there is still hope of a cure.

My Treatment for Weakness

Dosing the system with powerful stimulants and tonics in an effort to restore functional vigor can have but one final result. The condition is rendered worse than before. "Weakness" is merely an indication of a low form of inflammation in the prostate gland, and this inflammation is aggravated by stimulating remedies that excite temporary activity. I employ the only scientific and fully effective treatment for "weakness," which effects a permanent cure by restoring the prostate gland to a sound and healthy state. I obtain complete results in every case. I treat interesting literature and a beautifully engraved chart free if you will call.

No Minerals for Specific Blood Poison

Others dose the system with mineral poisons, scarcely less dangerous than the disease itself. The best they hope to do by this treatment is to keep the disease from manifesting its presence upon the surface of the body. Under my treatment the entire system is cleansed. The last taint of virus is destroyed. Every symptom vanishes to appear no more. I employ harmless blood-cleansing remedies. They are remedies heretofore unknown in the treatment of this disease. They cure by neutralizing and absolutely destroying the poison in the system. Such cures cannot be other than complete and permanent. Varicose, Lard Vigor, Organic Weakness, Contracted Disorders, Specific Blood Poison and Piles. I also treat and cure promptly and thoroughly.

NO CHARGE FOR CONSULTATION.

I do not charge for advice, examination or diagnosis. If you call for a private talk with me, you will not be urged to begin treatment. If impossible to call, write. Hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and 7 to 9 p.m. Sundays, 10 to 1 only.
